GENERAL BOR LOVE, of Steubenville, in rapidly acquiring a wide notoriety. The Cincinnati Enquirer, of yesterday, helps him on to fame by declaring that he is not a fit man to go to the Ohio legislature.

WE are glad to notice that Col. T. B. Coulter, of Steubenville, has been nomi-nated for his third term as Clerk of the Court. We believe in third terms in local offices, such as the one filled by the Colonel, especially where it is so ably and satisfactorily filled as in his case.

MR. Lor Joy says that the Republicans in the Gerard, Pa, region, are solid for Garfield against Conkling. They watched with great interest to see whether the President would take water or not on the Robertson case, and rejoiced with exceed-

A CALL has been issued for a non-partisan prohibitory. State convention to be held in Jackson, Miss., on Wedneaday, July 20. Its sole purpose is declared to be to combine the friends of prohibition in the effort to induge the adoption of a constitutional amendment, prohibiting the liquor traffic in the State after a certain day—leaving the scope and phraseology of the amendment to the wisdom of the Legislature.

The old question is being revived in St. Louis as to whether the membership of a Catholic in a secret society involves excommunication from the Church. The Catholic clergy as a general thing are averse to expressing su opinion as to whether or not a Catholic ceases to be a Catholic when joining a particular organization. Under the general head of sescret societies those only are condemned whose objects are contrary to those of the Catholic Church.

A Philadelphia dispatch from "Gath" to the Cincinnati Enquirer of yesterday, reads as follows:

"Yesterday a leading manufacturer told me to look out for some of the greatest failures of the period in the woolen mannfacture. "The woolen people, he said, the carpet people, the factory weavers, and all manner of wool-makers are dense."

"Yesterday a leading manufacturer told me to look out for some of the greatest failures of the period in the woolen manufacture. "The woolen people," he said, the carpet people, the factory weavers, and all manner of wool-makers are densely overstocked with goods they cannot sell. I have got seven hundred tons of woolen rake, he said. The paper trade, however, is not very close, and there are no supplies ahead."

this morning notwithstanding this news. Church Music-she U. P. General Assembly on the Subject.
The General Assembly of the U. P.

Church is in session at Pittsburgh, and among other questions up before the body for discussion is the subject of "overturing" the churches on the subject of so changing the rules of the Charch as to admit of instrumental music in their worship. It would seem that there is a Conkling for years did not spaak with wide aprend and growing desire on the Charles Sumner. He parted with Saward; part of the membership for a change or he quarreled and broke relations with relaxation of the rule. They want some Fessenden; he was on ill terms with instrumental music. They are tired of Trumbull; he was a mortal enemy of

I want this question settled finally. It has been discussed every year since I have been in the ministry. I think the ministers who are disturbing us in calling for the retention of the old rule will then go home and be nice, steady men, and I think we will all settle down to the con-cinsion that no revolution at all has taken place because congregations that want an instrument are allowed to have one. The question does not involve any fundamen-tal doctrine of faith.

It strikes un that this is a rather peculiar speech. It seems that the disturbers of the peace of the church are those who contend for the retention of the rule as it exists. This sounds odd. If the peace of the church cannot be kept by the reten tion of the rule why is it in there all this It is very plain that the rule will have to be altered, whether the alteration brings peace or not. The Committee on Bills and Overtures expressed themselves as follows on the subject:

"It is conceded by those who hold the various phases of belied on the subject of instrumental music in worship that there is a deep and widespread dissatisfaction with our present law relating thereto. There is a difference as to the extent of that dissatisfaction and the best method of allaring the The latter question is a very allaying it. The latter question is a very serious and important one. It does no allaying it. The latter question is a very serious and important one. It does not seem right to your committee that we enter upon a course which is likely to lead to strife and bitterness even it it should succeed. There are successes which are only the forerunners of disaster, white, on the other hand, there are concessions which most effectually conquer. The Scriptures, it is frue, in one piace commands us to earnestly contend for the faith which was once delivered unto the saints. We do not prefend to say whether or not that would include the matter at issue, but we do say that over against this one command calling for a holy contention we find scores of injunctions requiring us to follow after that which makes for peace, to "seek them and pursue them earnestly." Your committees are strongly of the opinion that the action of this Assembly on the question before us should tend in the same direction and exhibit the same spirit. We, therefore, recommend the follows the same spirit. We, therefore, recommend the fol-

Bluffs, Iows, an old citizen of this county, and, at a later day, of Bridgeport, Ohio, Mr. Keeline has many friends in this region who remember his career in our midst with interest, running back to his humble days as a butcher's boy at Fulton His life presents an unusual example of what industry combined with economy and good sense may do for a man. He was successful as a butcher, and accumulated considerable means in the business and with the capital thus acquired he em barked in the lumber, planing mill and ice business over at Bridgeport, and was very successful there. About twelve years ago he removed to Council Bluffs, having previously invested considerable means

This range is 45 miles by 22 miles, and he has on it 13,200 head of cattle, old and young. He ships at times as many as 3,000 head of four year olds to Chicago in one season, and more than once has realized over $60,000 in a year in the way of profits. Of course he has a good opinion of the West. He says that he likes the air of the country and the energy of the people. They do business on a larger scale than in this country, and are progressive in everything. Even the European immigrants slough off their old world conservatism and fall into the large ways and progressive ideas of the world conservatism and tall into the large ways and progressive ideas of the country.

Mr. Keeline was one of the earliest Re-publicans of this vicinity, and was never ashamed in the days of 1856 to be called a "Black Republican," which was the cur-"Black Republican," which was the cur rent phrase among our Democratic fe-low citizens. He sold good beef, good is Robertson case, and rejoiced with exceeding joy when they discovered that though a liaptist by profession he had a regular speli of hydrophobia in this instance.

In a speech to a number of young men the other day Alexander H. Stephens, of Georgia, said that, when during the late war it was suggested that he and other prisoners of state should be allowed to quit the country upon condition of never returning to it, he replied that he for one would not accept such a proposal; that "he would rather be hanged in the United States than live in any other country."

These are a few of the notable enmities that are scattered along Mr. Conkiling's peaceful pathway in the past. At present he holds no intercourse with John Sherman, has penly broken with General Burnside twice, will not speak to Ferry, of Michigan, refused to speak to Senator Windom because he voted to confirm Merritt, and treated Senator Kirkwood the same way. Both these geullemen have since increased their offense by going into Garfield's Cabinet. We mention the long standing enmity with Mr. Blaine only to remark that in the sorrowful shade of Mr. Conkling's displeasure the Secretary of State has abundant and distinguished company. Does New York desire to send this tracculent, ill-tempered, quarrelsome man to the Senate to perpetuale his old enmittes and cultivate new ones? Every Senator who voted to confirm Robertson is regarded by Mr. Conklings of disposition it is is impossible for Mr. Conkling to be valuable Senator for New York, Cincinnati Horse and Mule Market. CINNCINNATI, O., May 30.—Our city horse and mule market, as regards the amount of business being done, continues to loom up more and more as the great leading market of our country. Leaving out the sales that will be effected to-day Cent. O. Die...... 908 180 8.85 11:18 and to-morrow (and Monday and Tuesday's sales are usually large), the May sales have already reached 2,255 head—besales have already reached 2,255 head—being nearly 23 per cent more head than all of last May, and nearly 64 per cent more than the average for the last ten Mays.

Then, in regard to prices, the average per head during May has been $106.65, against $55.87, the average for May of last year. This is an advance of about 24 per cent, and must be very grailiying to those who send atock to the market for eale. The average price for May of this year is about 26 per cent above the general average for the last ten Mays.

As respects the coming month, the probabilities are that the sales will not exceed 2,000 head, as the June sales altways fall below the May sales.
